THE WORLD OF SOCIETY

Easter Monday Festivities Began With a Pretty Wedding.

everal Dances Tonight at Which th Gayeties Will Be Well Innugurated-Personals.

There is no question but that everybody s glad that the Easter holidays have come The young people, who are to begin dancing again tonight at one or two, or per haps three of the parties, are anticipating that pleasure with great joy. Some doubt cess of two hostesses, having about the same circle of friends, giving parties the same night, but that fact will rather miliate in favor of both-Mrs. S. S. Howland expects a large gathering, particularly from among the hunting set, and Mrs. of her acquaintance resident here, as well friends of her daughter. A company of about one hundred and fifty are expected. Mr. Fitch's tea this afternoon in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Oberteuffer will be some-what in the nature of a good-bye to them, as they are about to go to Seattle, where they expect to make their future residence. With their children they are now making Mr. Fitch a visit. Mr. Fitch a visit. Socially, the day began well, as it started with a wedding. A wedding at 7 o'clock in the morning, to which nearly two hun-dred friends assembled, is really something to be proud about.

Cards are out announcing the coming Cards are out announcing the coming marriage of Miss Minnie Sherman and Mr. Forrest F. Vrooman, on Wednesday, April 24, high noon, at the home of the bride-elect's parents. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sherman, a retired merchant of Culpeper, Va., and the groom, the eldest son of Mr. C. E. Vrooman, chief clerk of the solicitor's office, Department of Justice.

The Columbia Athletic Club has issue cards for the last ladies' day of the season, which will be given at the club house on Thursday afternoon, from 2 o'clock until 6.

Mrs. William Hedrian of Baltimore is spending the Easter holidays with her mother, Mrs. G. I. Ennis.

Mrs. C. N. Larner of 926 Massachusetts avenue will not be at home tomorrow. Mrs. P. D. Bond of Newport News is visiting her mother, Mrs. E. Sullivan, No. 53 C street southeast.

Mrs. George M. Sternberg of 1019 16th street is out of town for a few weeks. Dr. and Mrs. Petteys have their cousin

Mrs. R. Sackett of New York, visiting them at 1822 12th street northwest. At 7 o'clock this morning, at the Church At 7 o'clock this morning, at the Church of the Epiphany, the marriage of Dr. Henry D. Fry of this city and Miss Ida Belle Lindsay of Oklahoma took place. The ushers, Mr. Colin Campbell Lindsay, brother of the bride, and Dr. Henderson Suter, were the only attendants, and preceded the bride and groom, who came up the aisle together. The bride was gowned in golden brown crepon, trimmed with satin and chiffon, and wore a very dainty and becoming hat. She carried a large bouquet of La France roses. Mr. Lindsay gave the bride away, and Rev. Dr. McKim, assisted by Rev. Mr. Cole, performed the ceremony. The Easter decorations of the chancel were still in place, the formed the ceremony. The Easter decorations of the chancel were still in place, the altar banked in jonquils and tall bouquets of illies in the vases. Dr. and Mrs. Fry took the 8 o'clock train for New York, and will sail for Europe tomorrow morning. They will make a short tour and return early in June. Only the relatives and intimate friends were present, as there were no cards of invitation issued. The wedding gifts were numerous and elegant.

TRIP TO BERMUDA.

A large party made a delightful platforn rip Saturday evening to Bermuda and the luctor was Mr. Henry K. Willard, who to travel, but he had the ability to talk in seen and heard. Mr. Willard served the double purpose of entertaining his friends by an account of his recent cruise to the West Indies Islands, and of making a substantial contribution to the treasury of Garfield Hospital. The entertainment was for the benefit of the Ladies' Aid Society of the hospital, and the arrangements were made by Mrs. Miranda Tulloch and Miss to a purchaser. These are especially high-flavored berries of the most choice warlety, and are prepared with pure loaf sugar only.

Lena Burchell, Miss Jessie Vivian Kerr, Mrs. Jennie Cooper Wilson and Mr. H. L. Murdock contributed and Mr. B. H. Warner, who accompanied Mr. Willard on the trip, presided and said a few introductory words, and also sandwiched in a few remarks when the occasion seemed to demand it. He encountered very happily one of those incidents which are lighble to happen a such acceptance for effective property. able to happen on such occasions, for after the audience had assembled and the entretainment was about to open the electric lights suddenly refused to shine. Mr. Warner utilized the incident to make some witty and otherwise pertinent observations on the subject of corporations. In the meantime the janitor hustled around and lift the gas By the time the letter had on the subject of corporations. In the meantime the janitor hustled around and lit the gas. By the time the latter had been accomplished the electric lights flashed up again, which caused Mr. Warner to observe that this showed the effect of competition, for as soon as the gas was lighted the electric light improved.

Mr. Willard's appearance on the platform was the signal for hearty greeting on the part of the audience, and after a few pleasant words of acknowledgment he began his account of the trip. The lights were turned down and a series of interesting photographs of the scenery and of the people in those islands of the sea were projected upon a screen. Mr. Willard gave an interesting description of the various islands, the beautiful scenery and the customs of the people. During the trip Mr. Willard kept a daily journal, which was largely utilized in his lecture. He touched upon the little incidents which mark the appearance of a traveler, and also gave much information of value in regard to the various islands which he visited.

Captured Only One.

The local police navy, consisting of the slow and incommodious boat "Joe Blackburn," manned by an efficient crew of officers under Harbormaster Sutton, went out yesterday to make a raid on persons suspected of having nets in the river. It was about 1 o'clock in the afternoon when the about 1 o'clock in the atternoon when the start was made, but no big nets were found, and it is generally supposed that these violators of the law do their work at night. When the boat reached Georgetown two members of the crew in citizens town two members of the crew in citizens' clothes went in a row boat in the direction of the Chain bridge, and when only a short distance this side of the bridge they sighted a violator of the law. This violator was a man named William White, who was in a small boat with his son catching a few perch and herring for his family. White is a laborer whose salary is hardly sufficient to provide the necessaries of life for his large family, and it was for this reason that he went out with his son to get his large family, and it was for this reason that he went out with his son to get enough fish to last the family a few days. White begged piteously for his liberty, but the officers were powerless in the matter, and they arrested him.

This morning the unfortunate man, who had used a dip net, was arraigned in the Police Court, and he admitted his guilt.

The officers, in stating the case, told the court of the prisoner's condition, and Judge Miller released him on his personal recognizance, warning him that he had better catch fish with an out-line or buy them in the future. His boat and fish were confiscated.

Y. M. C. A. Debate. The Y. M. C. A. Literary Society held its egular weekly debate Saturday evening

ast. The first part of the program was an oration by Mr. Walter N. Weston. This was followed by a debate on the question Resolved, That the Gothenberg System of Regulating the Sale of Liquor Should Be Adopted in This Country." It was ably Adopted in This Country." It was ably led in the affirmative by W. U. Watson, and on the negative by F. C. Huebner. Other speakers were, for the affirmative, Messrs. Crittenden and Tasker, and for the negative, Messrs. Bray, Williamson and Weston. Mr. Lickey, who had been chosen as judge of the debate, after giving his personal views of the question, decided it in favor of the negative. EASTER SUNDAY CROWDS

The Weather Was Unpropitious for a

General Display of Finery.

Easter Sunday was not propitious meteorological sense for the display of spring finery, with which the female, as well as a large portion of the male population, ordinarily make it notable. The early morning was raw and chilly, and as the sun got higher its warmth was not sufficient to induce the wise to don thin duds fresh from the dressmaker. There were or the neuralgia in order to do the day its full honor, and at late church there were many striking toilets seen. In the matter of hats, however, the weather was not taken into consideration by the gentle sex. Every woman seemed to have a new creation on her head, and every creation appeared to be a section of the brightest spot in a luxuriant conservatory. Looking dewn from the gallery on the congregation of any of the fashionable churches gave one the impression of viewing a parterre of flowers, so generously were the bonnets and hats decorated with their ornamentation. The churches were crowded, too, at all the services. At the early masses in the Catholic and the early services in the Episcopal churches thousands of persons partook of their Easter communion, and in the Catholic churches particularly, whose parishioners regard the partaking of the holy sacrament at Easter as a necessary duty, the crowds of communicants were something tremendous. At 11 o'clock every church in Washington was crowded to its capacity, and in those where the musical portion of the service was made a feature it was impossible for late comers to secure even standing room.

There were large crowds on the favorite promenades during the early afternoon, but the 5 o'clock throngs that usually make the up-town avenues so picturesque on Easter Sundays were kent indoors by the peared to be a section of the brightest spot but the 5 o'clock throngs that usually make the up-town avenues so picturesque on Easter Sundays were kept indoors by the rain and the threatening appearance of the skies that preceded it. Many who had the hardihood to scorn the weather signs had their new toggery ruined, and two young girls who were caught umbrellaless in the shower on 14th street near Franklin square were clad in light plaid dresses, in which the dyes were not set and when they reached a nearby drug store they had a run-together appearance that would have made a color impressionist have a fit of ecstasy.

Those who ride in their chalses and those who had the means and the inclination to hire vehicles were out in unusual numbers, and all the drives around the city were crowded with carriages, while rapid driving was out of the question. A big throng visited the zoo, and most of it there in the evening got wet. The children were the most disappointed of the local inhabitants over the weather end of Easter Sunday, because every drop of rain that fell drowned their hopes of a glorious egg-rolling time in the President's grounds today.

Thefts Reported.

An unknown colored man committed old robbery near 10th street and Pennsylvania avenue Saturday evening, and the police have been notified of the affair. Mrs. Celia Hines of No. 412 12th street southeast was walking near the corner mentioned when the colored man stopped her and asked her to read an address on an envelasked her to read an address on an envelope for him. Mrs. Hines was endeavoring to accommodate the man, as she supposed, when he snatched her pocketbook and ran. An outery was made, but the man escaped. Fortunately for Mrs. Hines she only had about $3 in the pocketbook.

Mrs. Martha Wheeler of No. 608 3d street northwest has reported a theft to the police. Several days ago, she reports, while walking through the Smithsonian grounds some unknown person snatched her watch

The expressman has just brought us this morning the cream of the Hat market value—lot of Men's Soft "Alpine" Hats and Derbies in the new spring tints of browns, pearls, and also black. Thought we would mark them as high as the others; then changed our mind and will run them at 50c. less—for $2 instead of $2.50.
